MEMORANDUM CIRCULAR
NUMBER 15
SERIES OF 2020

GUIDELINES ON THE IMPLEMENTATION OF THE BALIK PROBINSYA, BAGONG PAG-ASA PROGRAM BY THE DEPARTMENT OF SOCIAL WELFARE AND DEVELOPMENT

I. RATIONALE

Based on the 2015 Census of Population, Metro Manila is the most densely populated region in the country with a population density of 20,875 persons per square kilometer.
This figure was an increase from the 2010 data of 16,032 persons per square kilometer. NCR’s population density is 60 times higher than the average of 337 persons per square kilometer population at the national level1.

An early conducted study by Banzon-Bautista (1998) on urbanization mentions several factors behind migrants from to the cities, including a perception of better employment, better access to services and facilities, and existence of social networks in the migrants’ place of destination2. These factors support the observation that Metro Manila and other highly urbanized cities are congested with families coming from the provinces. Most of these families lack the economic viability or opportunity in the rural areas, do not own permanent places of residence nor own lands to be a source of livelihood, and lack access to basic services in the province.

The availability of essential services, income opportunities, and settlement that will be sufficient to provide for the needs of the growing population in cities with high population densities becomes an issue. Local Government Units (LGUs) of major cities are challenged with the increasing demand for housing, infrastructure, and essential services to respond to the high volume of migration to cities. An increase in the number of residents in Metro Manila resulted in the proliferation of informal settlers without adequate access to decent living conditions without regular sources of livelihood. The number of informal settlers in the Philippines has increased from 4.1% in 2003 to 5.4% in 2012\(^3\). The recent rise in the number of cases of Covid-19 disease poses an even greater risk to the congested Metro Manila, an additional responsibility to the LGUs to allocate resources to health emergency response. These resources could have been used to other developmental programs and social investments, focusing on fostering human capital and boosting economic opportunities in their localities.

One of the proposed strategies to address rising trends in urban migration and decongest key metropolitan cities is to promote rural development by opening up opportunities in the rural areas that can support living arrangements and sustain life in the provinces. The Balik Probinsya, Balik Pag-asa Program aims to provide opportunities for families from urban areas who will commit to begin anew in rural areas by providing material support, capacity building, and psycho-social intervention to support families from the cities resettle in their new communities. In the long term, the program hopes to contribute to decongesting urban cities and in facilitating development in rural areas.

II. LEGAL BASES

III. OBJECTIVES

The Balik Probinsya, Bagong Pag-aso (BP2) program shall provide comprehensive services to families who will return to their provinces and funding support to assist the Local Government Units to improve access to basic services. Particularly, it shall ensure the following:

a. Families who will avail of the program will be provided holistic interventions to achieve full integration into the communities;

b. Provide support for the family’s economic stability and development;

c. Provide community grants for projects that ensure access to basic services;

d. Conduct local participatory process to promote participation, transparency and accountability in all phases of implementation; and

e. Enhance family and community resilience to natural and man-made disasters and health emergencies.
IV. DESCRIPTION OF THE PROJECT

The BP2 program is one of the support measures that could lead to the decongestion of urban poor communities where a high incidence of COVID-19 is recorded and contributes to the achievement of balanced regional development. It will enable the families who decided and/or are qualified to return to their hometown or resettlement areas and have the opportunities to start a new life after the COVID-19 enhanced community quarantine period and other disasters.

The program will start with the initially-assessed 1,000 families in Metro Manila from the generated list of applicants who utilized the registration system established by the National Housing Authority (NHA) at www.balikprobinsya.ph, mobile phone registration and walk-in registration platforms available at the LGU level. The succeeding implementation would cover a total of 10,000 families in a span of three years. Each year, about 3,000 families will be targeted and catered by the program. For beneficiaries who do not have a hometown or province that they can return to, they will be relocated to pre-identified municipalities that will support the program. It is estimated that around 50 municipalities will be engaged per year with this program. Evaluation reports from the first batch of beneficiaries will be the basis for developing better strategies in targeting more families.

V. TARGET BENEFICIARIES

The BP2 program will benefit low-income families who will opt to move out of Metro Manila or other highly urbanized cities and return to or relocate to other provinces due to but not limited to the following circumstances: (i) the family decided to resettle to the identified rural provinces, (ii) loss of a job or other source of income, (iii) unsafe dwelling places; or (iv) exposure to health and safety risks and other environmental hazards in their current area of residence.

The LSG shall only be provided once per eligible family should other agency does not have available funds for the purpose and assistance shall not exceed the maximum amount of PhP 50,000.00.
